

Deborah Birx, former White House Coronavirus Response Coordinator, recently told FOX News a couple of interesting things about the shots.

First, she noted that more than half of the deaths from Omicron occurred in people who had received them.

Second, she said that she "knew these vaccines were not going to protect against infection and I think we overplayed the vaccines."

Yes, they may have "overplayed the vaccines" just a teensy-weensy bit, don't you think?

If you want to learn American history, forget about asking the typical professor.

If you want to find out what's going on in the world, forget about asking the typical journalist.

If you want a serious cost-benefit discussion of the shots for people in various age groups, forget about asking the typical physician.

If you want an overview of the Federal Reserve and its true effects on the economy, forget about asking the typical economist.

Ladies and gentlemen, welcome to Clown World.

Clown World wants to demoralize you, even make you question your sanity, with its propaganda.

It wants you demonized and isolated -- from your more obedient family and friends, and even from society at large.

It wants you to grow so weary and discouraged that you just throw in the towel, because what can one person do.

Well, that isn't happening.
