

And finally, courtesy of Eric @IAmTheActualET on Twitter, here are the 25 most stringent lockdown states graphed against the 25 least stringent; there must be a radical different between the two groups, right?

Shouldn't those hospitalization numbers be wildly different? And yet you can't even tell them apart.

How does this not end the debate right there? (This is a rhetorical question.)