

They say a picture is worth a thousand words, so today's communication amounts to 3,000. It's a story in pictures.

Here is the new mayor of Los Angeles two days ago at her swearing-in ceremony. Remember that this is late 2022, nearly three years since everyone went berserk over Covid. Three years.

Everyone is masked. Three years later.

But now check out the very next day:

What "science" demands masks in the first indoor setting but not the second? (That's a rhetorical question.)
